

Mrs. Laura S. Webb,
Vice-President, Woman's Democratic Club of Northern Ohio.

"I dreaded the change of life which was fast approaching. I noticed Wine of Cardui, and decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on now until I have passed the climax."

Female weakness, disordered menses, falling of the womb and ovarian troubles do not wear off. They follow a woman to the change of life. Do not wait but take Wine of Cardui now and avoid the trouble. Wine of Cardui never fails to benefit a suffering woman of any age. Wine of Cardui relieved Mrs. Webb when she was in danger. When you come to the change of life Mrs. Webb's letter will mean more to you than it does now. But you may now avoid the suffering she endured. Druggists sell 51 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

AN OPEN MEETING.

W. C. T. U. Holds One Friday Night.

The open meeting held by the W. C. T. U. of this city at the Methodist church Friday night was quite well attended and was enjoyed by all present. The program is published in last week's paper was carried out with the exception of a couple of numbers by persons who were unable to be present.

The address of Rev. Jones was excellent and was well received by his hearers. The paper by Mrs. Tylman on "The Common Sense School" was exceptionally good and we give it space in our columns. The paper reads as follows:

The Common Sense School.

Theoretically we all agree that the gravest concern of a free state should be the education of its people, of the common people whose word and intellectual standards, whose individual characters make the character of the community. In the large cities thousands of the future voters are allowed to drift in the streets excluded from the schools for lack of room. Their fathers crowd them into shops and factories on false age certificates and set up as a valid defense against the charge of perjury that they had better be liars than their sons thieves; for the teaching of the street follows the kindergarten principle—that "one learns by doing." Shooting craps, that is gambling is its initial lesson and the rest follows.

much such boys know of it, and of what it means in his treatment school, respect. Until Theodore Roosevelt came to teach us that ays are made to be enforced not to be broken with a bribe, we had a compulsory education law and it was a dead letter. The school authorities in New York did not even pretend to know how many children there were of school age, and until 3 years ago there was no way of finding out. We had a law prohibiting child labor, and it was broken for a quarter a day as the testimony before the legislative committee showed. The real barrier to child labor is ever the school and with that down the law was just so much waste paper. Dead letter laws, work the same kind of harm to the civil spirit of the community as hypocrisy in the church would to the cause of religion.

We had an excise law, No one has forgotten what that stood for—the boy no more than the rest of us. The saloon always stood by him if the school did not. The result has been registered at the state reformatory where the crop of the street is harvested—77 per cent with criminal sense, or with next to none, with average mental capacity. The material was there to make good citizens of. It is an old story and bad one—municipal misgovernment.

The last school census tell us how great the need of more school buildings. Schoolhouses add to the character of the community, the lack of them a scandal. The tough who tried both ways in the "George Junior Republic" came out a little less sure to be bad than good. When we get our public schools run on the common sense plan, we shall have a character to deal with in the boy and the voter. "Weakness not wickedness" opened the door to the jail for the vast number that passes through it. We could substitute the school for the jail, surely that is common sense. There is never a worse use to put a boy to than put him in jail.

The details I shall leave them to be worked out by the teacher for his own salvation. I like to think that in the new educational plan the chief corner stone shall be the boy's affection. And that the test of the successful teacher and the successful school, shall be their ability to gain it. Once associated the boys play with his school and it is done. Play is what he wants to do. Work is what he has to do. Play is not more idleness at least not in the common sense plan it is normal occupation.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Golobick of Columbia, Calif., writes: "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried every thing known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved me of kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Webb Bros."

through which his first perceives moral relations. Let the play ground be the next stage. In large cities it is put on the roof. Play grounds will become the neighborhood roof gardens by night. The saloon's back door was always the shortest cut to the jail and training the head, hand and heart together will be high privilege of the teacher. Not his wearisome task.

The common sense school will be bright and attractive. With pictures and flags on the wall, with light enough to read by, air that doesn't poison the children and make them stupid; with classes no bigger than the teacher can know and remember every child and make him feel that she does so. It is also going to be a handsome school with stone front and generous porch. So that our school may be remembered by the child long after he has left it for its own sake as well as for his school fellows' and teachers'. To the teacher in the common sense school her work will be a constant source of inspiration and joy, that is if she is the right kind of a teacher. If it wears her she will know by that fact that she is not the right kind and that she does not rightfully belong there if she had 10 certificates of proficiency for one.

"What Shall We Eat?"

Every day the same old question, what shall we eat for breakfast, for luncheon, for dinner? assails with monotonous regularity the patient housewife who seeks to provide good living for the family in agreeable variety at a moderate cost. There is a daily department in THE CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD which is intended to answer this question satisfactorily every day in the year. It is entitled "Meals for a Day," and provides menus for the three meals every day, with the necessary recipes. These menus and recipes are carefully selected by THE RECORD-HERALD'S household editor, and cash prizes are awarded to the test that are received. Housewives everywhere are invited to participate in the competition. For full particulars see the "Meals for a Day" department in THE CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD.

Religious Freedom in Mexico.

Missionaries in this country are on an equal footing before the law with the clergy of the Catholic church. The federal nor the state governments make any distinction between them. Around the members of all communions is thrown the protection of the federal constitution. Because some of the more fanatical and uninfluential people in Catores warned the missionaries to leave the town the impression has gone abroad that the whole community was hostile to Protestant missionaries. It is time that this utterly false impression was done away with. The municipal government of Catores is composed of enlightened and unprejudiced men; they will uphold law and order in that community. —Mexican Herald.

EARS GROW DURING LIFE.

According to This Authority These Appendages Do Not Attain Full Size with Maturity.

The systematic examination of more than 40,000 pairs of human ears in England and France has resulted in some interesting conclusions. For one thing, it is ascertained that the ear continues to grow in the later decades of life—in fact, it appears never to stop growing until death, says the Saturday Evening Post. If one will take the trouble to look around in any assemblage of people, as at church, he will discover that the old folks have ears considerably larger than those of the middle-aged. A woman who has small, shell-like ears at 20 years of age will be very apt to possess medium-sized ears at 40 years, and large ears at 60.

Why ears should go on growing all one's life any more than noses is a mystery. There are a good many other points about them that are instructive, their shapes being markedly persistent through heredity. Any ear will be handed down, so to speak, from father to son for generation after generation with comparatively little modification. Some authorities on criminology assert that criminals are very apt to possess a peculiar kind of ear, which is recognized by an expert in such matters.

There is probably nobody in the world who has a pair of ears perfectly matched; in most people the two differ perceptibly, not only in shape, but also in size. Frequently they are not placed precisely alike on the head. The age of a person may be judged with great accuracy by the ears, which after youth is past assume an increasing flatness of contour. A pretty woman whose first youth has departed may not show the fact in other ways, but these telltale features will surely tell the story of the flight of time. Then there is a little wrinkle that comes just in front of each ear during the thirties—a fatal and irradicable sign.

Near the top of each ear, just within the downturned edge and slightly toward the back, will be found, if one feels for it, a small lump of cartilage. This is a remnant of what was originally the tip of the ear, when ever so long ago that organ in our remote ancestors had a point on it. Most of the apes to-day have pointed ears, but in human beings the upper edge of the organ has in the course of ages been folded over so as to cover the real tip.

A MOTHER CAT'S LOVE.

Saved Her Kittens from Being Burned to Death at the Risk of Her Own Life.

"Speaking of bravery," said W. S. Stearns, proprietor of the Capitol Hill dairy, in the Denver Post, "there's an old cat out at my ranch that is always welcome to the best place afforded. I can tell you. She is a real heroine. One evening lately our gasoline engine, which ran the separator, blew up. Result was all the sheds I housed my stock and the coming winter's supply of hay in went up like tinder."

"We could do little more after getting the horses out of the way of danger than watch the spectacle and regret the shortened water supply."

"The men called my attention to the cat I was speaking of, up in the hay mow lashing her tail and looking beatifically down as if afraid to make the venture through the smoke. We soon understood, however, that her fears were not for herself, for she came to the edge of the structure with two good-sized kittens, firmly grasped in her mouth."

"The way she partly sprang, partly scrambled like a monkey, down the mow with her burden was as laughable as it was pathetic. Laying them carefully at my feet, with a look which said very plainly: 'You'll take care of them, won't you?' she went straight back into the burning barn. Ten of us watched the dense rolling clouds of smoke into which the cat had disappeared, thinking she could never make it in the world. But she did, somehow, and you better believe a big burrah went up as she came staggering back with the third kitten. Its tail was scorched stiff as a poker, but she accomplished her purpose to bring it out alive. Her feet were burned raw, her whiskers were clean gone and her sides were smoking."

"No, Tabby has not been much to look at since, but money would not induce me to part with her," declared Mr. Stearns.

No Pity Shown.

"For years fate was after me continuously" writes F. A. Gullledge, Vezbena, Ala. "I had a terrible case of Piles causing 24 tumors. When all failed Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me. Equally good for Burns and all sores and pains. Only 25c at Webb Bros."
